ATTEMPTS TO KILL CHINESE PRINCE IN FRISCO

Uncle of Chinese Emperor Is Target of Overwrought Countryman.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 7.—An attempt to kill prince Tsai Heun, uncle of the emperor of China, as he stepped from the Overland train at the Oakland Mole, a half hour before boarding the liner Chiyo Maru for the return trip to China, was frustrated late yesterday afternoon by chief secret service operative Harry Moffitt and detective sergeant George MacMahon of the local police department, when they seized and overpowered George Fong, a member of the Young China association, just as he was about to draw a revolver from his pocket with which to fire upon the royal visitor. Fong was handcuffed by the detectives and quickly detached from the crowd that had gathered at the station to welcome the prince upon his return to this city from his visit to the east. He was taken across the bay on a ferryboat, placed in an automobile and hurried to Moffitt's office, where he made a full confession of his intention to assassinate the prince. A five chambered 38 caliber revolver, fully loaded, was found in his pocket. He acknowledged that he had purchased it on the day that the prince left San Francisco for his tour of the east, with the purpose of shooting him when he arrived here on his way back to his home.

Arrest Quickly Made.
The arrest was made so quickly and quietly that neither prince Tsai nor any of his retinue, nor any member of the reception party, knew anything of it until the steamer was ready to sail. Then rear admiral Thomas S. Phelps, representing the government of the United States in the final ceremonies attending the distinguished visitor's departure, was informed by Moffitt of what had happened. Whether the prince was told of his close call from death was not learned.

In his statement to the secret service men, Fong denied that his action was the result of a conspiracy to kill the prince. He said that the organization to which he belongs, while revolutionary in its tendencies, is in no way responsible for his attempt to slay the emperor's uncle.
In his statement to the authorities and the newspapermen, Fong, who speaks good English, said:
"My desire was to strike a blow for the liberty of my people, just as George Washington did for his people. I am quite willing to be a martyr. The Manchu dynasty has long oppressed the millions of Chinese, and I wanted to destroy one of its leaders."

"I tried to kill prince Tsai Heun because he is an enemy of my people. I did the best I could, but my work in this particular case is over for awhile. It will be taken up again elsewhere, I can assure you.

EDITOR ESCAPES POSSIBLE DEATH

Editorial Writer of Los Angeles Times Takes First Vacation in Years.

G. W. Burton, the man behind the Los Angeles Times editorials, is in El Paso. He is the head of the editorial department of the Times as chief editorial writer, and has been the author of the principal editorials in the Times.

Mr. Burton was in Sonora at the time of the explosion in the Times building, preparing to sail for Europe for a vacation of one year. He did not hear of the catastrophe until Monday, when a Texas trainman on the west coast line told him of the explosion and the resulting fatalities. Having missed his boat at Mazatlan, Mr. Burton came to the states and to El Paso en route to Mexico City and Vera Cruz, where he will start on his delayed vacation trip abroad.

Although 72 years old, Mr. Burton has been actively engaged in the game of getting out a big newspaper for the past seven years without a vacation and was just starting on a year's leave of absence when the fatal explosion occurred in Los Angeles. While abroad he will write a series of syndicated letters and magazine stories for the American newspapers and magazines, in addition to a series of special articles for the Times. Mr. Burton spent the day in El Paso and Juarez and left Friday evening on the National Railways express for Mexico City.
